

If you suspect Application Enhancer or one of its modules to be the cause of abnormal behavior, try the following steps:

1

Try disabling Application Enhancer temporarily by pressing the button below. This will disable Application Enhancer for the next login session (when you log out and log back in). If your problem persists, it's not related to Application Enhancer.

Disable Temporarily

2

If your problem is gone while using your system without Application Enhancer, consider adding the application in question to the Exclude List and contact us with details at support@unsanity.com.

Add to the Exclude List...

If you want to remove Application Enhancer from your computer, click the button below. However, if you are doing so in response to a troubleshooting problem, and the steps above did not help, Uninstalling Application Enhancer is extremely unlikely to help either, as the problem you are experiencing is not related to Application Enhancer or its modules.

Uninstall Application Enhancer...

OK